Personal.

INFORMATION is wanted as to the whereabouts of Mr. PATRICK KING, who when last heard from was in the employ of the C. P. R. at Port Moody in the capacity of Bridge Carpenter. Some 18 or 20 months ago a rumor reached his friends in New York State that he, with a number of other workmen, were quarantined for small pox at Port Moody. He was formerly a resident of Brockport, Monroe County, New York. Since that time, 18 or 20 months since, his friends have received no tidings from him. Any person knowing anything of his whereabouts will relieve a widowed mother's anxiety for an absent son by communicating such information to the TIMES office, Victoria, or to H. McDONALD, Tonawanda, New York State, U. S. july5

A CARD.

ANSWER TO THE "COLONIST."

TO PARROT NOSE.—If you had been a gentleman instead of a cur, you would have paid the dollar and twenty-five cents for the lady you brought with you. How could a cur expect a fortunate planet when trying to damage my name and ruin my business. Cowhiding is too good for such people. If people were to study their planets a little more there would not be so much crime or misery. I am very much obliged to the ladies; I did not think I had so many friends. I am sorry the "Colonist" has nothing for its idle hands to do but insult a lonely woman. MDME. EMPRESS.

IRRESPONSIBLE GOVERNMENT.

Mr. DUCK—according to the true ethics of political etiquette we are forbidden to speak of him longer as "Honorable"—still continues to discharge the duties of Finance Minister, although he has ceased to represent a constituency. Several months ago Mr. DUCK was defeated at the polls in this city, and no arrangement, apparently, is being made to find him another constituency. Not being a representative he cannot continue to discharge the duties of a minister of the crown without violating the most sacred principle of responsible government. Mr. DUCK is not probably so much to blame for hanging on to an office worth $3000 a year as is the government in permitting him to retain a portfolio which might, with as much propriety, be held by any private citizen of the province. With him it is a question of the emoluments pertaining to office; with the government the exigencies of party—the inability to find a man enjoying, in a measureable degree, the confidence and respect of the country—is a lion in the path, compelling them to endure the ills they have rather than fly to others they know not of. The vacant portfolio will be kept dangling before the eyes of the supporters for months to come, and will operate as a powerful incentive to the ambitious member to bury his independence and vote solid with the government. The trick is an old one and will be played for all that it is worth by the Provincial Secretary, who is the "brains" of the cabinet. But the continuance of Mr. DUCK in office is none the less an insult to members of the legislature and a gross violation of the first and most essential principle of British parliamentary government. He is an irresponsible adviser, representing no one but himself.

PARNELL'S LAND BILL.

Its Second Reading Carried in the Commons by a Vote of 176 to 66.

Mr. Parnell in moving the second reading of his land bill in the Commons on Monday night said the recent elections conveyed a mandate to the House of Commons that it should show itself willing and able to provide for the wants of Ireland equally as if it were an Irish parliament. [Cheers.] It was useless to talk about the lateness of the season. The House was only six weeks old and a majority of the new members were young and fresh and not overworked; they did not require a holiday. A state of urgency existed with reference to regulations between landlords and tenants in Ireland. Parnell here explained the provision of his bill. The first clause, he said, was the most important, because it dealt with most urgent subjects. The bill was to be a temporary measure, except the second clause, to provide for what he hoped would only be a temporary emergency and was intended to meet the depression in price but he could not tell now whether the depression was likely to continue. The depression commenced in 1885 and continues unabated ever since. Until the house is able to take action on the report of the royal commission, we will abstain entirely from prejudicing the government proposals, but we do know since the bulk of judicial rents has been fixed there has been a great depression in prices. Therefore it behooves the house to apply a temporary remedy now and not wait for the royal commission report or for the government to take action thereon, which will be impossible before November, 1887. A similar delay occurred in the consideration of the Land Act and Arrears Act of 1882. Our opponents will probably urge it will be exceedingly difficult for a land court to ascertain whether tenants are really unable to pay rents; but there was similar difficulty to overcome in connection with the Arrears Act of 1882, and the court satisfied itself within five months of the inability of two hundred thousand tenants to pay their rates. Similar quickness and expedition will follow my bill, and the work will probably be finished in three months. I propose further that the tenant shall deposit half the amount of his rent, leaving the court to determine how much regarding the portion tenants shall pay and how much landlords shall lose. Under the arrears act the tenant deposited only one-third of his rental; the landlord losing one third and the state advancing the remaining third. The only practical difference is that the state shall not be the loser. In regard to the suspension of evictions my bill closely follows the lines of the arrears act, which act worked justly and satisfactorily for all parties. The costs of evictions frequently exceed the amount of the rent due. It is necessary to suspend evictions to save tenants additional cost.

After Gladstone and Parnell had spoken at length, the former having stated his intention of voting for the bill on principle, though he himself would have framed a far different one, the debate was adjourned by a vote of 176 to 66.

CHICAGO TO VICTORIA.

At noon to-day a special party to be made up of business men and pleasure seekers was to have left Chicago for a tour of the Northwest and the Pacific coast via the C. P. R. The party will travel in a train of sleepers and dining car to Port Moody, thence via steamer to Victoria, stopping en route at Banff and other special points of interest. On arriving at Victoria they will practically disband, the tickets being good to return at any time within sixty days. The price of the round trip from Chicago is $90; from St. Paul or Minneapolis $80; sleeper berths and dining car extra. From Messrs. Berry and Bixby, of Chicago, the organizers of the party, it is learned that many persons have signified their intention of going. The party will reach Winnipeg on the 24th and will reach Victoria on the evening of the 29th inst.

A RUN THROUGH CANADA

The Colonial Exhibition and what is Seen Therein from the Dominion of Canada.

The Illustrated London News Loud in its Praise—British Columbia's Contribution.

In previous issues we have given extracts from the London journals in reference to the Canadian display at the Colonial Exhibition. The London Illustrated News, in a recent issue devotes a large amount of space to illustrations of the Canadian Court, and a letter press description thereof. It heads its article with and says Sir Philip Cunliffe-Owen proved a true prophet when, prior to the opening of the Colonial and Indian Exhibition, he pointed out that, comparatively empty though the Canadian courts were then, the Dominion of Canada would be richly and fully represented in good time, and that the exhibits from the North American possessions of the Queen would be among the most interesting and valuable features of the Imperial Museum at South Kensington. Canada commands attention, indeed, on the very threshold. Once in the eastern entrance hall, the visitor has before him alluring proof of the growing prosperity in the panorama of wall pictures to the right of the City and Harbor of St. John, New Brunswick; of picturesque Quebec, with a population of 65,000; Montreal 173,000; Ontario's fine cities of Ottawa, with 31,000 inhabitants, and of Toronto, 125,000; Manitoba's thriving City of Winnipeg, 25,000; and the beautifully situated City of Victoria, British Columbia, with a population of 9,000. That arts and manufactures flourish in the well-built cities which are justly the pride of Canadians, and that agriculturists and sportsmen find abundant crops and plenty of "big game" in the fertile lands and noble forests and rivers of the Dominion, which reaches from the Atlantic to the Pacific Ocean, will be readily realized by anyone who strolls through the well-stocked courts of Canada.

CANADA'S MANUFACTURES,

which fills the Central Gallery from the Agricultural Trophy to the Game and Fur Trophy, are as noteworthy as the remarkable farming produce. The English firms of Huntley & Parmer and Peak, Frean & Co., for instance, might well be proud of the four hundred varieties of biscuits displayed to advantage by Messrs. Christie, Brown & Co., of Toronto. Similarly commendable in their way are the Amber and other ales of Carling & Co., London, Canada, Messrs. Gooderham and Worth, the well known Toronto distillers, have but a modest case, probably deeming good Rye Whisky needs no bush. Be that as it may, the popularity of their excellent whisky is so great that that two thousand cattle are fed from the grains of their distillery. A glance at the various food and clothing exhibits, too numerous to mention in detail, will make it clear that Canada is not far behind the mother country in these respects. The vivid photograph of a Canadian ice carnival, by Notman & Son, Montreal, is only one of many admirable views of winter pastimes, in which Canadians seek recreation after the manner illustrated in one of our engravings representing the Ice Palace, tobogganing and snow-shoe racing. The portraits of North American Indians, including the famous "Sitting Bull" chief, speak for themselves. The Canadian Indians, as a rule, have a profound belief in the goodness of "the Great Mother," as they designate her Majesty the Queen, and they rely with confidence upon her protection.

THE FOREST TROPHIES

in the middle of the Central Gallery, should make Mr. Gladstone's hand itch to wield the woodman's axe in the Far West. Pause to examine the little court made of beautifully polished sections of the Douglas fir of British Columbia—forest giants which grow to a height of over 200 feet. Within may be viewed a collection of clear photographs, proving to demonstrate how comfortable traveling must be in the commodious saloons of the Canadian Pacific Railway, which in his holiday period of the year ought to induce hosts of British tourists to book passages across the North American Continent from ocean to ocean by this exceedingly picturesque line. As prime movers in this invaluable "iron road," Sir George Stephens and Sir Donald Smith are men whose portraits are rightly exhibited close by the views on the Canadian Pacific Railway. When you have duly scrutinised the features of and of his genial and tactful executive commissioner, there is another timber trophy of view. This is the valuable display of woods from New Brunswick, the trunks forming the base to support the framed specimens in panels, on each of which is a painting of the foilage and flower, or fruit. Those interested in this section of the exhibition will open their eyes in astonishment at the gigantic slab of Douglas fir, cut from a tree, the girth of which was 25 ft. and the height 300 ft. This veritable patriarch of the forest (the clossal sample from which leans against the western wall of Canada's machinery department) exceeds in dimensions even the cedar trophy we have engraved—the British Columbia cedar, girth 2[illegible] ft., height 250 ft., which will be found [illegible] the adjacent carriage annexe.

THE GAME AND FUR TROPHY

is the finest structure of the kind ever exhibited; and never fails to draw a throng of gazers at the western end of the Canadian Central Gallery. With a few exceptions, the game was supplied by one of the most experienced and enthusiastic sportsmen in Canada, Mr. J. H. Hubbard, F. Z. S., President of the Manitoba Gun Club, a lynx-eyed Nimrod, and a genial and an obliging guide, to boot. The portion of this splendid trophy delineated by our artist is the side facing east, the most conspicuous animal being the largest moose Mr. Hubbard has ever shot or seen, standing 18 hands 3½. Below are the noteworthy Canadian furs exhibited by the Hudson Bay Company and by Messrs. Rewfrew, of Quebec, from which firm Her Majesty graciously purchased a sable set. The Queen also bought a silver fox skin from the Hudson Bay collection. Many a fashionable lady has been similarly tempted to provide herself with warm Canadian furs for the winter. But the grand Hubbard array of "big game" has claimed greatest notice. A rover and keen marksman from his youth, Mr. J. H. Hubbard exhibits here abundant examples of his prowess. Very instructive is a chat with him about his sporting experiences in the Dominion. A native of Toronto, he is forty years of age, and is, in truth, a mighty hunter.

$50,000,000 OF B. C. GOLD.

The visitors now cannot do better than follow the path taken by the Queen past the obelisk representing the $50,000,000 of gold produced by British Columbia during the past 25 years; past the conspicuous column of coal from the Wellington mines, Vancouver's Island, and into the side court to the left, stored with a beaver at work, and with Mr. Thomas A. Keefer's specimens of the mineral wealth of Ontario. Then, there is the obelisk of Nova Scotian gold, representing $7,493,401 worth discovered up to the end of last year. The ceaseless rattle of the adjacent arcade full of agricultural machinery in motion is borne with patience because there in action are to be viewed the most recent improvements to cheapen harvesting on a large scale. South of this instructive section is the richly-furnished Educational Court, which shows that Canada can give a few lessons to our school boards. In the adjoining Carriage Annexe, the fine team of Esquimaux dogs command attention, as well as the brilliant show of sleighs of all sizes. The sporting skiffs illustrated are afloat in one of the ponds. Finally, the Exhibition rambler should not omit to view the fishery and canoe exhibits of Canada, nor the oil and water color paintings by H. R. H. Princess Louise and other artists of mark in the Picture Gallery of Albert Hall. Having inspected these and a multitude of other attractions, the visitor will loyally and cordially agree with Her Majesty in holding the Canadian exhibits to be among the most instructive of the Colonial and Indian Exhibition.

THE AGRICULTURAL TROPHY,

at the eastern end of the Central Canadian Gallery, has been admired by every visitor, from Her Majesty the Queen to the humblest mechanic. Artistically devised to display the rich varieties of timbers Canadian forests yield, the 1100 glass jars of brilliant hued apples and pears, peaches, grapes, and other fruits, and the canned meats and fruits Canadians excel in, this magnificent trophy is appropriately crowned with sheaves of luxuriant wheat and prairie grass, festooned with oats and corn, light and handy farming implements being placed here and there to typify the industry of Canadian agriculturists. Under this superb Peace and Plenty trophy will be found a series of photographs of Canadian trees, framed in their own woods.

Captain Clark, the stalwart Scottish leader of the Winnipeg Rifles, has recovered from his wounds, and is here to be found ready and willing to dwell upon the vast agricultural wealth of Canada, a far-away look filling his blue eyes, as though he were gazing on the golden grain fields of the Northwest provinces, whilst he calls attention to the 2,600 specimens of wild plants of the Dominion sent by the Canadian Government, and treasured in a cabinet, and then refers, with becoming pride, to the samples of potatoes and cauliflowers, from the provinces of Eastern Canada as well as from British Columbia, which attain immense growth. As a practical farmer, Captain Clark points with no less pride to the thousand open sacks of wheat, oats, barley, peas, buck wheat, maize, beans; to the small stand decked with the prairie grasses cattle revel in; to a sample of hops, all the way from and to the sacks of fine flour, oatmeal, Indian corn meal, and linseed meal. Conducting you round to the north side of the commanding central trophy, Captain Clark shows the model of the Hon. W. Clifford's dairy farm in Manitoba, beneath the homely trophy of wooden pails and domestic appliances, and alludes to the farm in a tone which implies unmistakably that many a nobleman might do worse than follow the enterprising example of the Honorable W. Clifford. The exhibit of Canadian cheese by Jubal Webb, of High street, Kensington, finds Captain Clark equally read to point the moral and adorn the tale. "This is worth note, he says, and so it is: "In 1850, Canada imported 857,951 lbs. of cheese. In 1885, Canada exported 86,579,824 lbs.; and it will go to the Hundred Millions this year." Hard by is the case of sixty glass cylinders used by government surveyors in Manitoba and the Northwest to pierce the earth in order to ascertain the nature of the soil and subsoil. Retracing our steps to the rear of the large trophy, we come to an exhibit Mr. Chamberlain cannot have failed to be interested in the other day: Messrs. Pillow, Hersey & Co.'s remarkably complete case of nails and screws from Montreal. To the left, customers are rarely lacking at the tin model of an ice palace, for Johnson's fluid beef is there dispensed by the comely girls in the blanket "snow-shoe costumes" actually worn in winter by Canadian belles. The tobacco stall of Messrs. Tuckett & Sons on the other side reminds Captain Clark that this firm sent a handsome gift of 6,000 pounds of tobacco (a pound each) to the soldiers who took part in the Riel campaign.

PAWNBROKERS AS DETECTIVES

According to the Pall Mall Gazette the pawnbroker is an interesting and a useful item of the community. How is it that he never rises? One never hears, for instance, of a pawnbroker being made a C. B., or being knighted, or becoming Lord Mayor of London. Yet, in spite of this absurd prejudice with which he is regarded, the pawnbroker does really excellent work. By the nature of his business he is a detective of no mean powers, and is consequently able to serve his country well. Take the case which was heard yesterday, in which a pawnbroker claimed blood money and got it too. Yet even here the justice of his case was questioned. A murderer is flying from justice. Justice is on his track. He throws off a black coat, in the pocket of which is a pair of spectacles, bearing a name and address. What does justice do? Goes to the nearest pawnbroker, the plaintiff in this case. Sure enough, the murderer walks in with a pistol to pawn. He is detained and captured in the shop. The pawnbroker claims the reward, but a host of middlemen rise up to dispute his right, which, as the jury found, was indisputable. It will be a good day for crime when it gains the pawbroker on its side.

HE SLEEPETH.

To THE EDITOR OF THE TIMES:

SIR—As a certain number of hours are allotted for sleep, that is "if you're not a fast man," how is it that your worthy Mayor generally sleepeth at places of amusement. I am a new comer here, Mr. Editor, and was astonished when told at the Athletic Exhibition last night, that the portly personage asleep in an easy chair was Mayor Fell. More's the pity.

NEW COMER.

NEWS BY CABLE.

RIOTING IN BELFAST.

BELFAST, Sept. 21.—Desultory rioting, accompanied by firing, continued through the city during all of last night. Two policemen were seriously wounded and a number of citizens were injured. How many of the latter were hurt is not known, because friends of many of them carried them away before the authorities could secure them for hospital treatment. Twenty arrests were made during the night. Catholics evince a more bitter spirit against the police and soldiers. The appearance of a single constable in one of the troubled districts last night was greeted with a volley of stones. Aspect of affairs this morning is threatening and more firing is expected.

GLADSTONE'S DENIAL.

LONDON, Sept. 21.—Gladstone publishes a letter again denying the Protestant's repeated reports that he is about to join the Catholic Church. He says the statement that I intend to become a Roman Catholic is a revival of a miserable falsehood, reproduced from time to time, without a shadow of evidence for basis, and is unworthy of notice until it assumes a character very different from merely calumnious invention.

PRUSSIA'S CROWN PRINCES.

METZ, Sept. 20.—The German Crown Prince Frederick William, and his son Prince William arrived here at noon. Their arrival was signalled by a salute of artillery, and the ringing of bells. The town was decorated in gay colors. The streets forming the route to be traversed by the Prince were spanned by triumphal arches. All the local societies were arranged in full regalia. The children of the public schools, in Sunday clothes, assembled at the depot to bid the Princes welcome.

THE BELFAST TROUBLES.

BELFAST, Sept. 20.—Reinforcements have been telegraphed for by the authorities. The mayor hastily summoned a meeting of magistrates last night. A measure will be adopted to prevent other disorders.

A TEST WANTED.

Winnipeg Traders and Railway Rates—After the Trade of British Columbia.

The Winnipeg Sun of the 15th inst., says: "There is still prevailing among the business men of the city a very general feeling that the rates adopted by the Canadian Pacific, not only with regard to our own western trade, but more particularly with respect to the trade of British Columbia, discriminate against the development of a commercial center in Winnipeg. The existence of this feeling, supported as it is, by figures, has led, not only to the taking of preliminary action by the council of the Board of Trade, but to renewed expressions of opinion, now very general, in favor of securing competition to the south. The benefit of competition is now manifest in the low rates given to St. Paul, Montreal and other centres where there is a clashing of interests in the carrying trade, and without which any community seeking to establish an extensive trade must suffer very materially. The expressions of opinion given by Hon. Thomas White and Sir John Macdonald at the time the Canadian Pacific charter was under discussion left little doubt as to the legal status of the province in this matter, a view that is still further emphasized by the decisions of the Imperial Privy Council on the cases involving provincial rights brought to it from the province of Ontario. The practical question then arises as to how our rights in this matter are to be established. There are apparently but two methods—one to utilize the legislation passed by the provincial legislature, if that is found to be sufficient, as to which there is considerable doubt; the other to devise means of having a test case carried to England. If this last course is found necessary, the question of expense will at once present itself. Private individuals can scarcely be expected to assume the responsibility, and it must necessarily devolve upon the provincial exchequer to supply the means of fighting out an issue in the result of which the entire province is interested. But no matter which course is decided upon, it is necessary to send to the provincial legislature men who are prepared to stand honestly by the rights of the province. There need be no question of party in this matter. Nor will there be if the ratepayers take a determined stand, and exact cast-iron pledges from all candidates. But without such a stand, protesting may go on for ever, and the province still be far from securing what it demands—viz., competition."

BEHRING SEA SEIZURES.

Hon. Mr. Foster's Views on the Stupid Outrage.

OTTAWA, Sept. 11.—Upon the return of Hon. Mr. Foster, Minister of Marine and Fisheries, he was interviewed on the question of the seizure of Victoria sealers, and expressed himself as follows:

"The seizure, according to our views, was unjust. Full representations will be made to the Imperial authorities. Among the questions involved in the settlement of the affair are that of monetary damages for the forfeiture of seals and the detention of vessels, the right of the Americans to exclude our fishermen from the high seas or from pursuing their vocation outside the three mile limit following the indentation of the coast and accepted as one of the leading principles of international law. In 1821 Alexander, the then Czar of Russia, which at that time owned Alaska, asserted the extensive territorial right to all the waters of the Pacific above 51 degrees north latitude. The entire stretch of water he characterized a "close sea," because it lay completely within Russian territory. The United States at the time was the foremost to oppose the declaration. Later on, however, the same government purchased Alaska and for an annual consideration of $300,000 gave the sole right to fish or trap on the prohibited waters to a private trading company. Protection of the interests of the traders was guaranteed and the seizure of the British vessels was one of the natural results. It must be recollected that the United States at one time vigorously opposed the very principle which they are now attempting to enforce. Mr. Boutwell, secretary of the United States in 1872, writing on this question in reply to an enquiry made at that period, expressed the belief that this government did not possess the right to exclude the vessels of fishermen of other nations from the Alaskan seas.

REVOLT IN SPAIN.

Lively Skirmishing Between the Rebel and Loyal Troops on Saturday.

Madrid the Scene of Action—A Loyal General and Colonel Killed.

MADRID, Sept. 20.—A revolution was attempted last evening by a number of Spanish troops quartered in this city. The uprising was ill-planned and ill-managed and practically amounted to little more than a mutiny. The trouble was inaugurated by a regiment of infantry quartered in Gibblas barracks. The soldiers revolted, broke down the partition wall that separated them from quarters occupied by cavalry, and intermingled with men of two cavalry regiments a number of whom joined in the revolution. The officers of all the three regiments did all in their power to dissuade the men from revolting, but three hundred soldiers, after beating a number of officers and wounding three, deserted from the barracks and marched in two bodies throughout the town. One body went to the Prado, the principal park and promenade of Madrid. Two thousand troops were quartered in the Prado at the time and the revolutionists expected to be joined by them. Another body went hurrahing through the centre of Madrid calling on the people to join in the revolution and crying "Long Live the Republic," and making all kinds of threats against the monarchy. At this time the treaters and other places of amusement were crowded. The populace were taken by surprise. In most of the public places the people flocked out in a panic and all entertainments abruptly terminated. The streets were soon filled with people, nearly all of whom were terror stricken because of an aggravated idea of what was transpiring. The insurgents attempted among their first exploits to secure possession of arsenals and barracks which they attacked with open fire, but all these places were well and successfully defended, and the rebels were repulsed and finally withdrew all together. They then attacked and got possession of the Southern railway. By this time the authorities had taken in the situation and had fully prepared to master it. Loyal troops marched to the railway and, after a short fight, they completely dislodged the revolutionists, who dispersed into the country. General Pavia pursuing during the fighting in the city, and one of the officers leading the insurgents, were shot and killed. Government troops were soon in pursuit in another special train.

The rebels shot General Velande for refusing to join them. They also mortally wounded the Count Marasala and killed a colonel of artillery. Martial law was proclaimed throughout the city as soon as the condition of affairs were clearly perceived by the government. The emute was a complete surprise to Madrid. Quiet was soon restored after the revolutionists were driven from the Southern railway. A number of insurgents were taken prisoner. This morning there is no appearance of revolution or of disorder; when insurgents fled from town part of them compelled the station master to place at their disposal special trains by which they made the flight to Alcade De Henrez.

LATER.—Additional particulars of last night's revolts show that the insurgents also shouted "long live republic the army and Spain." Large numbers of civilians joined their ranks and when the authorities summoned the military to put down the insurrection the rebels made a stand for a while against the loyal troops and it was in the first brush between the opposing forces that General Vitarde and the artillery colonel were killed. When the revolutionists realized that the other troops were making no response to their appeal they abandoned the fight in the town and scampered for the country, mostly in the direction of Alacada, DeHenrez, a walled city in Newcastile, and about 17miles from Madrid. Many rebels gave up the fight long before the general retreat of their comrades and made their escape in the darkness. The authorities are making a great many arrests for complicity in the revolution and a large proportion of the prisoners are officers. It is learned to-day that the revolution was led by Brig. General Vallacampa. He escaped in a special train which left the city on the Southern railway. The loyal troops are scouring the suburbs of Madrid in search of the fugitive rebels. Telegrams from the provinces show that the public order remains undisturbed. The ministry, who happened to be all absent from the city yesterday, have been summoned to return immediately. It has been learned that the revolutionists who started for Alacade De Henrez, on becoming convinced that the loyalists would stop and possibly capture them, stepped off their special train while en route and went back to Madrid and fled across the country. The streets of the city are alive with rows of people eagerly discussing the occurrence of last night.

THE EARTH TREMBLING.

CHARLESTON, Sept. 21.—There were three shocks of earthquake at Charleston last night and early this a. m. The shock at 5:20 a. m. being quite sharp and causing the houses to rattle uncomfortably. There was no great alarm, but a good many persons ran out of their houses into the streets and remained there. At Summerville there was three shocks between 4:45 and 6 o'clock this morning, there being a rather violent shock at 5:20. Loud detonation, similar to the report of a heavy gun, was heard.

LAUNDRYMEN IN TROUBLE.

Three Chinese laundrymen—Ong Sing, Sam, and Ah Loug—were charged at the police court this morning by Mr. Wm. Pierce with the larceny of $85. Mr. Pierce placed that amount of money in a pocket in an undergarment, to pay his expenses during a contemplated trip in search of a homestead, and forgetting to remove the money gave the garment to a Chinaman to be washed, when the money disappeared. The men arrested are the proprietor and assistants in the laundry. The accused deny the charge. The case was adjourned until Thursday, the prisoners being admitted to bail.

THE GRAVING DOCK.

The Dominion Bridge Company, of Lachine, which received the [illegible] contract for the iron caissons for the new graving dock at Esquimalt, have completed the [illegible], and a number of the company's workmen have left for the Pacific Coast to place the caissons in position.

PARNELL'S EVICTION SUSPENSION BILL.

Since the meeting of the present House of Commons much of its time has been consumed in discussing matters appertaining to Ireland, Mr. PARNELL being the central prominent figure in the debates. For the manner in which he has so far engineered these subjects he has received the unstinted praise of his compatriots in the house as well as drawn forth the admiration of those who are but onlookers on the great play now being created in the chief council of the Empire. It is asserted that on introducing his Eviction Suspension Bill Mr. PARNELL managed to throw a veritable apple of discord into the Tory-Unionist camp. It was received with civility by Lord CHURCHILL; and it is hinted that the noble Lord's action in the matter has provoked something like a quarrel between Lord SALISBURY and his lieutenant in the Commons, besides drawing out angry remonstrance from Lord HARTINGTON and the Whig dissidents. Were these the sole results of the proposal, it would signally redound to the Parliamentary dexterity and foresight of its author. But the more closely this proposition is examined, the more awkward seems the plight in which it has placed the British government. It cannot be accepted without alienating most of the Unionist-Liberals and a part of the Tories, while it cannot be rejected without estopping the Ministry from dealing in a vindictive way with agrarian disorder which they are now shown how to prevent. Nothing could be more moderate and reasonable than the expedient by which Mr. PARNELL would avert the hardship of eviction during the coming winter. It stops far short of the summary and indiscriminate measure urged by Mr. CHAMBERLAIN a few months ago, for that would have stayed all evictions until every judicial rental in Ireland had been readjusted to the actual prices of farm products. The Nationalist leader simply asks for a temporary suspension of the harsh right of ejectment until the new parliament conforming to the promise of the government, shall find some radical solution of the Irish land question. Nor is even this transient indulgence to be enjoyed for the asking, for the recipient must prove to the satisfaction of a land court his inability to pay the rent judiciously assessed, and must tender his landlord on account a sum which the same tribunal shall pronounce proportional to his resources. Small enough a concession of this kind may seem to many of our readers. But they will see upon reflection that the very modesty of Mr. PARNELL's demand constitutes its danger to the Tories. There is hardly an Irish landlord who would not rather have such a proportion of his rents as an impartial court shall declare his tenants able to pay than incur such inordinate expenses as have attended all the recent attempts at ejectment. How, again, will the government, which has admitted that rents need revision, justify to the British people the cost and odium of employing military force in the business of eviction in cases where, as Mr. PARNELL will be able to demonstrate, the victims were ready to furnish legal proofs that they were overburdened? The good sense of Englishmen and their sense of decency would revolt at a persistence in barbarity, after an easy method of avoiding it had been pointed out in parliament.

All this seems to have been clear enough to Lord RANDOLPH CHURCHILL, for it is currently reported that he intended to assent to the clause suspending eviction when he agreed to permit the introduction and discussion of the PARNELL bill. Unless he had such a design it was manifestly a grave blunder in tactics not to oppose all consideration of land measures on the specious ground of want of time. It is alleged that a like judicious and merciful view of the ejectment business was taken by the Home Secretary, Mr. MATTHEWS, and we shall expect to hear that the Irish Secretary, Sir MICHAEL HICKS-BEACH, cast his weight on the same side. But Lord SALISBURY, partly in pursuance of his own uncompromising disposition, and partly in deference to a sharp protest from Lord HARTINGTON, is understood to have put a veto on the CHURCHILL plan. Six months hence, however, when the Tories find themselves in a box owing to their chief's rejection of a humane proposal, they are likely to think more highly of CHURCHILL and less respectfully of SALISBURY than they have ever thought before.

PORT LARAREFF.

China is watching Russia with intense interest. It was recently rumored that Russia had designs on Port Lazareff, which the Russian bear intended seizing to counterbalance England's occupation of Port Hamilton. Lazareff is described as a fine natural harbor on the unparatively unknown eastern coast of Corea. It is almost abreast of the isthmus which joins Corea to the mainland at a point where the isthmus is about 120 miles in width. To the north is a range of mountains, forming a natural frontier and an excellent line of defence for Corea. China would necessarily regard the establishment of the Russians within this barrier as a prelude to their annexation of the whole peninsula. The harbor at Port Lazareff is an attractive one, as it is about eight square miles in area, well sheltered and free from ice in winter. The entrance, however, is about two miles in width, and a long line of submarine mine defence would be necessary to make the harbor a naval fortress. It is therefore inferior in that respect to Port Hamilton with its island position and a single deep entrance scarcely four hundred yards broad. As a strategic point, moreover, the latter has a decided advantage. It lies off the southern point of the Corean peninsula, only 240 miles from Shanghai and 210 from Nagasaki. The distance to the southern island of Japan is 150 miles, and the position virtually commands the Yellow sea and the Corean straits. Hongkong is 1,100 miles distant. Port Lazareff, on the other hand, is 480 miles farther north, 570 from Nakasaki, 1,200 from Yokohama and 1,560 from the Russian station of Nicolaieff at the mouth of the Amour. Vladivostock, the most southern Russian harbor, is only 370 miles to the north of Port Lazareff, but is closed by ice for about three months in the year. Russia's contemplated move would advance her beyond the ice region and within 480 miles of England's outpost in the western Pacific. Russia is very jealous of England's prudent acquisition of Port Hamilton. A recent article in the Novoe Vremya says that Corea has fallen into complete and actual possession of China, although its independence under the merely nominal suzerainty of Pekin was agreed to by the Powers at Seoul after the revolution three and a half years ago. The foreign affairs of Corea are now entirely in the hands of the Chinese embassy at Seoul, and, with the help of English ships and English guns, we are told, the world may look forward to the creation between Russia and Japan of a second Bosphorus and another eastern question, with all its complications, of which England only will reap the benefit in safeguarding her enormous commerce in Chinese ports.

A GREAT SHOW.

The annual exhibition of the Ontario Agricultural and Arts Association opened at Guelph yesterday, and closes next Friday. The entries this year are up to the usual standard and, if favored with seasonable weather, the indications are that this year's show will rival that of past years. Concurrent with the Provincial at Guelph, Toronto, is holding its great industrial exhibition which has attained such wonderful proportions and success that it has now become one of the permanent institutions of the "Queen City." The Provincial this year is being held in the centre of a rich agricultural district, long noted for the numbers and the excellence of the live-stock which it contains, so that we can fully expect at this exhibition a large representation in this department. The prize list is very full, especially in everything relating to the great live-stock industry. The Clydesdale Association are giving a special sweepstakes prize of $50, for the best Clydesdale stallion of any age, to be recorded in Clydesdale Stud book of Canada. Be it observed that Durhams competing must be entered in the Dominion Shorthorn Herd Book. In the class for Durhams there are two specials, in each of which $20 is given as a first, and $25 as a second, the former for the best herd of Durham cattle, consisting of one bull and four females, imported, and the latter for the same, Canadian bred, and silver medals are given for the best pens in nearly all the sheep class, both for those imported and for those Canadian, and the same in several of the pig classes, a very commendable step. Silver and Bronze medals are to be given for the best milch cows in nearly all the classes. The Prince of Wales prize this year goes for the best five females (Durhams), three years old and under, bred and owned by the exhibitor. In the dairy department the prizes are full and ample in which specials offered by the Oaklands Jersey Dairy are conspicious. These annual exhibits of the industries of the key stone province have, beyond everything else, been an important factor in developing the wonderful strides Ontario has made in the last quarter of a century. It will also be so in British Columbia.

OUR FARMING POPULATION.

More than half the population of Canada get a living by cultivating the land. The whole population by the census of 1881 was 4,324,810, which, at the rate of 5 persons to a family, would give 864,962 adult males. Of these 464,025 are classed as occupiers of the land, 403,491 being owners, 57,245 tenants and 3289 employees. The occupiers of 10 acres and under numbered 75,286; between 11 and 50 acres 93,325, between 51 and 100 acres 156,682; between 101 and 200 acres 102,243, and over 200 acres 36,499. Though more than half the people are farmers and the families of farmers, we never hear any complaint about an over-production of wheat, or potatoes, or butter, or eggs. The squealing about lack of market comes from the minority engaged in other occupations than farming. Canada does not want more cotton spinners or carpenters or merchants to crowd those already engaged in those lines, but a few thousand more farmers to buy the products of towns-people's industry would never come amiss. The Tory policy has been to build up town industries by discouraging farming, and it has not worked well. The true policy, in the interest of both classes, is to give the farmers every encouragement. When they are doing well, they will keep town people busy serving them.

HAIRY FAMILY FROM BURMAH.

A Sight of Eccentric Interest—Extraordinary Development of Hair.

Among the many sights from distant countries to be seen in London at present there is one of eccentric interest, especially to the ethnologist and the medical man; we refer to the hairy family from Burmah, which is now exhibited at the Egyptian hall. It is alleged that Mr. Barnum had endeavored to induce the family to leave Burmah for exhibition some time since without success. This has been accomplished by the course of recent events in the kingdom of King Theebaw.

In Mr. Crawford's "Embassy to the Court of Ava," he mentions that he saw, at the Burmese court, a man, 30 years old, with his whole body, except the hands and feet, covered with straight, silky hair, which, on the spine, was five inches in length. At birth the ears alone were covered. It is stated that at birth hair several inches in length was found to be growing from the tympanum of each ear of this man's daughter. There are two individuals, the mother, Mahphoon, daughter of Shway-Moung, the homo hirsutus described and depicted in Crawford's narrative, which Col. Yule quotes in his work on the "Court of Ava," and Mahphoon's son, Moung Phoset. The latter is accompanied by his wife, a Burmese woman, of good-humored appearance, who appears, as the exhibitor states, to take a pride in her extraordinary husband. The mother of the latter, who is now blind, is in charge of a young Burmese attendant.

Notwithstanding the strange appearance of both mother and son, there is nothing savage or wild in their manners. Each member of the family, it seems, had peculiar privileges at that court for three generations. The absence of molar teeth in Moung Phoset engages attention, as well as the extraordinary development of hair, especially on the face, including the nose, forehead and ears; adding another example of the observation of Darwin, on the occurrence of an abnormal development of the teeth. There appears to be no record of any supposed first influence having been an agent in the appearance of this remarkable family's peculiarity.—British Medical Journal.

Two Theories for Cooking Meat.

A Frenchman will take a roast of beef, or in fact any solid meat, and subject it to a long though gradual action of heat, so that all the fibrous parts would be thoroughly cooked. That would leave but little work for the digestive organs to perform. An English cook, on the other hand, would build a roaring fire and would roast the beef only on the outside, leaving the inside rare. He allows only a little time for broiling or roasting, because his theory is that any other process destroys the genuine flavor of the meat.

The point of flavor is the one on which the two cooks split and therefore their philosophies run wide apart. "No flavor can be invented," says the Englishman, "which can approach that of meat. The flavor of meat must not be meddled with. Whether the dish is to be of beef, or lamb, or mutton, that process is best which can keep the flavor of each meat distinguishable above any sauce or condiment that may accompany it." Nothing, in the Englishman's notion, can equal the flavor of the juice oozing from a nicely roasted joint or rib when sliced. The Frenchman can make an endless variety of flavors from the same meat, in neither of which will that of the original meat be recognized. That idea, enlarged upon, makes the difference between the two methods of cooking.—The Argonaut.

The Political Prime of Statesmen.

The age at which statesmen reach their best reputation seems to be between fifty and sixty, though a large number become very prominent before that time. Clay, Calhoun, and Webster jumped into national prominence very early in life, and Clay was a member of the senate before he was thirty. John Randolph appeared so young when he was elected to congress that he was asked his age when about to take his oath. He disdained to answer the question directly, and referred the inquirer to his constituents. James G. Blaine has some years to live before he will be sixty. George F. Edmunds is fifty-seven, and Arthur was younger than this when he left the presidency. Sam Randall is fifty-seven; Carlisle looks older than Randall, but he is only fifty, and Tom Reed and Governor Long have made national reputations at forty-six and forty-seven. There are fewer men than usual in this house between thirty and forty, and there are none under thirty. In many of the houses of the past we have had congressmen in the twenties, and Galusha A. Grow was only twenty-eight when he came here to represent the district of old Wilmot, the man who made the noted proviso.—"Carp" in Cleveland Leader.

The Work of Party Giving.

The extent to which the fashionable New York housewife depends on the caterer, not only for food but for nearly everything else in the way of entertaining, is growing more and more noticeable. These useful servants take all the details of the work of party-giving off the hands of the hostess. They lay the dancing cloth, provide musicians, have the dancing orders composed and printed, decorate the rooms, put up the storm awnings, number the carriages, provide extra chairs, coat checks, supper and help, and virtually give the entertainment. All the lady of the house has to do is to walk down to her parlors and receive her guests when they begin to arrive. The cost of all this is very much less than one would imagine, and the relief from the din, hubbub and annoyances that prevail when the house servants undertake the work is divided.—New York Cor. Pioneer Press.

Principal Key of the Bastile.

The principal key of the old French Bastile was recently discovered at Villeneuve l'Archeveque, in the department of Yonne. M. Heligand, who placed it before the Archaeological society of Sens and vouched for its authenticity, related that, after the first attempt to storm the Bastile, the Locksmith Plancon was asked to repair the damage to the lock. He had not yet finished his work when the Bastile was again attacked, and he was compelled to flee, taking the key with him. He left Paris and settled in his native place, Rigny le Feron, not far from Villeneuve l'Archeveque. There he died in 1830, after having bequeathed the key to a friend by the name of Vernay, in whose family it has remained ever since. The key is over a foot long and beautifully worked. Another key of the Bastile, not belonging, however, to the principal lock, was presented by Lafayette to Washington, and is still preserved at Mount Vernon.—Boston Transcript.

Woman's Work as a Journalist.

The daily press, which has become already the people's university, is to be largely the pulpit and the forum of the future. Here woman has a place to stand, a pulpit ready from which no ecclesiastic edict can exclude her, and from which she can comfort humanity's heart, "as one whom his mother comforteth;" and in this forum can her weapons of argument be sharpened for the time when Portia shall become a flesh and blood creation in halls of justice.

As in the world at large, so in the world of journalism, woman's favorite specialty will always be some phase of religious, educational, reformatory or philanthropic work, or some topic relating to the home. Nearly all the papers treating of humanitarian enterprises are already either conducted or largely influenced by women journalists, and, as every reader knows, women do some of the best work on the religious press.—Frances E. Willard in Chatauquan.

President Eliot is authority for the statement that it is the sons of the newly rich who make all the trouble at Harvard.

THE "BEEF ISSUE."

A SPECTACLE AS BRUTALIZING AS SPANISH BULL FIGHTING.

Scenes at an Indian Agency on the Great Sioux Reservation—Cattle Awaiting Slaughter—Ladies Witnessing the Shooting of the Animals.

"Oh, it's going to be a lovely day for the beef issue. I'm so glad," says a young lady at the breakfast table. Every one is animated and expectant. For several days visitors at the agency, besides the usual hospitable welcome, have been greeted with the exclamation: "You are in just in time; you must stay to the beef issue." All through the day before and far into the moonlight night long processions of Indian wagons have been coming across the hills, and their occupants have gone into camp on the high slopes all around. At an early hour of the morning the whole landscape is full of life and movement. The Indians are decked out in their gayest attire, and some of their costumes are pictorial enough. Most of them still wear the native dress, but some have on a combination of Indian and civilized garb, which is uglier than either alone. Nearly all are bareheaded, and their long black hair, parted in the middle, falls back over their shoulders. Their faces are painted in various bright colors and in all kinds of grotesque figures. The Indian men are very fond of wearing tails, and when on foot like to have a strip of bright colored cloth dangling at their heels or dragging along on the ground behind them. They nearly all wear blankets, which at this time of the year are, most of them, sheets of dirty, gray looking muslin or sheeting. These they wrap closely around them, often covering the head and face, all but the eyes.

As we look about us after breakfast we see the Indian women and girls harnessing their horses. Carriages are brought to the door for guests, and we are soon all on our way to the government corral. Everybody is going; residents about the agency, young ladies who are teaching schools in the distant camps and others who are visitors from eastern cities. All are in high spirits. Acquaintances exchange greetings. Indian wagons filled with women and children are moving over the plain from all directions. There are hundreds of young Indian men and women on horseback. They go curveting and racing about the plain. The Indians never look well on horseback, but they manage to stay on. Their ponies are slight and ugly looking, but tough and enduring. They are the most useful and respectable denizens of the Indian country, and are about the only creatures here who earn their rations. The girls sit astride, the same as the men. Some of the belles are in costly apparel. I count more than fifty elk teeth on a large cape worn by a radiant brown maiden. As each elk has just two teeth a whole herd must have been slaughtered to furnish the bravery of her attire. She reminds me of New York Fifth avenue belles with dead birds on their heads, but the elks were really killed for food.

CATTLE AWAITING SLAUGHTER.

The corral is a large stockade in the middle of a plain, which slopes upward to low hills all around. Here are many hundreds of cattle awaiting slaughter to furnish rations for the noble red men, their squaws and papooses, "the wards of the nation." There are about 2,000 Indians present. A large portion of the men are armed with carbines or improved rifles. There is an army officer here from the nearest fort, to represent the government on the occasion. A brass band has come out from some railroad town to compliment the ladies and frighten the already distracted cattle with the blare of their music. The entertainment opens with a popular air. The ladies applaud delicately, and the musicians bow their acknowledgments. Mounted cowboys enter the corral, spur their horses among the cattle, and drive groups of them, with shouts, yells and blows, toward the chute leading to the scales, where they are weighed, a dozen at a time. After leaving the scales, in a narrower part of the chute, each animal is branded with a hot iron, and passes on into another division or apartment of the corral. This first brand shows that the animal has been received from the contractor. After all have passed through this experience they are again driven into the chute with the same accompaniment of yells and blows, and receive another brand. This is to identify the hide after it has been taken off.

All this is but overture and prelude, but the curtain will soon rise and the play begin. Ladies and visitors are assigned the best points of view for the coming spectacle. The Indian wagons with the women and children, and the dusky equestriennes, press close together around the walls of the corral. The Indian horsemen are drawn up in two long lines, forming a lane from the gate of egress, far out on the plains. Their carbines gleam in the sunlight. I turn and note the sweetness of the June morning, the beauty of the circling hills, the flag of our country floating above the government buildings, and, in the momentary hush, the gushing song of a meadow lark, far off across the grass. Hundreds of Indian dogs troop about, hungry, watchful and expectant. A tall Indian, with a voice like that of an exhorter at an Arkansas camp meeting, climbs up to the top of the gate and shouts the names of the men who are to receive the cattle, as, one after another, they are released to their doom. The gate opens and a gigantic steer leaps out, frightened and wild eyed. He trots uncertainly down the lane of horsemen. The dogs fly at him, and he sets off in a gallop. Two Indians gallop after him, and everybody looks that way. But by this time another is out, and soon half a dozen are racing away in different directions, each closely followed by two or three mounted Indians.

SHOOTING THE ANIMALS.

Soon a shot is heard, and then another, and the ladies strain their eyes to see, but the steer gallops on. The ladies look a little disappointed. "They are going out of sight. Is this all it is going to be?" But wait. More shots, and more; and now they come faster, like the ominous, irregular but increasing skirmish firing before a battle. Five or six of the cattle go off together, with a dozen men pressing behind and at the side of the fleeing group. A horseman fires, and a steer drops so suddenly, head first, that he turns a complete summersault, and the pony just behind, unable to stop, repeats the movement, tumbling over the prostrate beast, and dismounts his rider. Some of the cattle are at first only slightly wounded, others are crippled so that they cannot run, but several shots are required to dispatch them. Now and then one turns in fury upon his pursuers, and the ponies swerve aside to avoid his charge. The ladies turn quickly from side to side, to note the most interesting occurrences. The dying animals lie all about the plain. Some struggle long, getting up and falling again, and the Indians wait warily, till it seems safe to approach, for a mortally wounded beast will sometimes make a plunge at his tormentors.

Now a hunted brute dashes madly among the crowd around the corral, the horses start and rear, and the brown maidens scramble hastily on the wagons. A large cow, shot through and through comes staggering up to the very walls of "the grand stand." The Indians try to drive her away, but she no longer heeds their yells and blows. She reels, braces herself, turns her great beseeching eyes up to the women above her, and falls at their very feet. The Indian butcher appears, throws of his leggings, and bestrides her with naked brown legs and thighs. He opens her throat with a short knife and cuts out the tongue. He pierces no artery or large vein, and the poor, tongueless beast dies slowly. She lifts up her head, stares around again, and tosses about wearily in mute agony. The half-naked slaughterer goes on with his work, and the cow is partly skinned some time before she dies. It is all so near that the ladies have an excellent opportunity to see every step of the process.—Sioux Agency Cor. Boston Herald.

INCONTESTIBLE EVIDENCE.

John Munn sworn, before Justice Galt, Toronto, 1882, Jas. Bethune, Q. C., for plaintiff:—I live at 98 Lumley street, Toronto; at present my occupation is that of an insurance agent; I was for 15 years in the employ of F. W. Coate & Co., auctioneers, as salesman, going there in 1867. I have had experience in the use of the Star Kidney Pad; I put it on in the year 1880. I applied it for my kidneys. During the Fenian raid, I was in the British army, and while in camp on the Niagara front I got a severe cold, from lying on the damp ground; I was treated by the army surgeons, but not cured; I was troubled with my kidneys from 1867 to 1880; I used to apply hot fomentations—hot flannels to my back, well soaked with turpentine. But the disease kept still coming on me. I heard from a man in the mart one day of the Starr Kidney Pad; he recommended it to me; he recommended me to try it; I wore two Starr Kidney Pads; I got the third, but did not quite finish it. Q.—"Why?" A.—"Because I have been cured." Q.—"To what do you attribute your cure?" A.—"I attribute my cure to nothing else; and if I had the same complaint again I would have nothing else. It was in the winter time I was cured. The agent came round to me for a testimonial, and I told him if the second one cured me I would give him a recommend. If any one had inflammation of the kidneys, I was in the proper way; the pain was so severe I could hardly bear it; a great many people think they have inflammation when they have not got it." Q.—"How long after wearing the kidney pad did you get any benefit?" A.—"I wore one about five weeks, then I got another one and wore it two or three days, the pain left me, and I have not had a return of it since." Cross-examination—"I was afflicted longer than ten years; I see my name there to a testimonial, it is there by my permission. When the testimonial was worth signing I signed it there in the pamphlet. It was in 1880 I wore these pads." Q.—"You never had anything so good in Wakefield's shop as a Starr Kidney pay?" A.—"Never saw anything so good. We slept at Germantown on the way to Fort Erie during the time of the Fenian raid, and it is there we got wet. I was not sick before for ten years. I am a married man; I was married in Toronto, here in 1862. I had the honor to be married in Her Majesty's service." Re-examination:—Q.—"I believe the defendant wrote to you?" A.—"Yes; I got a letter from him and I answered it recommending the pad; it is something like two years ago he wrote to me.

THE GREAT FRENCH REMEDY

Dr. LeDuc's Periodical Pills.

These Pills are compounded from the purest drugs, from those only which are known to act upon the Generative Organs in Females. It is a well known fact that a very large proportion of the ills to which Females are liable, are the direct result of Suppressed or Disordered Menstruation, and it is necessary therefore that a safe and reliable remedy for the cure of these diseases be placed within the reach of every one. Dr. Le Duc's Pills are the oldest, most generally used, and most reliable remedy for the cure of Suppressed Menstruation, and other Uterine diseases, and wherever they have been introduced have driven every other remedy out of the market. They were first introduced into Paris, France, by Dr. LeDuc in 1833, and have so gained the confidence of the public that they have for years been the standing remedy in every household. DR. VANMONCISCAR,

THE WELL-KNOWN

SPECIALIST,

Proprietor & Consulting Physician of the Only Private Dispensary on the Pacific Coast, now permanently located at 132, 134, Third Street, Portland, Or.

DR. VANMONCISCAR has made the treatment of Private Diseases of Men a special study and practice for many years. Over 4000 cases treated yearly. Recent cases of private diseases cured in a short time. Ulcers, Humors and Blotches on Face or Body cured without giving Mercury or other Poisons. Mercury is the curse of the human race. Your children will suffer from its effects. Avoid it as you would avoid any deadly Drug, and use no more. These diseases are being cured at this Dispensary without Mercury.

DR. VANMONCISCAR

is a graduate of a regular Medical College, is well known over the United States and Canada by and it is a well known fact that for years he has confined himself to the study and treatment of Sexual and Chronic Diseases, thus giving him advantages few possess. Dr. Vanmonciscar addresses himself particularly to those who have already tried various physicians and remedies from whom they have received no benefits, and who, in fact, have done them more harm than good. Medicine, like all other sciences, is progressive, and every year shows proof of its advances. By a combination of remedies of great curative power, Dr. Vanmonciscar has so arranged his treatment that it will afford not only immediate relief, but permanent cures.

YOUNG MEN

who are suffering from the effects of youthful indiscretions showing some of the following symptoms: Nervous and Physical Debility, Impotency (incapacity) Lost Manhood, Abuses of the system, Exhausted Vitality, Confusion of Ideas, Dull and Loss of Brilliancy to the Eye, Aversion to Society, Despondency, Pimples on the Face, Loss of Energy, and Frequency of Urinating. You may be in the first stages, but remember you are fast approaching the last. Do not let false pride and sham modesty deter you from attending to your ailments. Many a bright and naturally gifted young man, endowed with genius, has permitted his case to run on and on, until remorse racked his intellect, and finally death claimed its victim. Remember that "Procrastination is the thief of time." So lay aside your pride, and consult one who thoroughly understands your ailments, and who will know your case, and find permanent relief for an ailment that has made day a drudgery and night hideous. Thousands upon thousands of men in good standing in the social world, of prominence in the world are to-day suffering from the fruits of their doings, the seeds of which were sown during moments of thoughtlessness. Young man turn and gaze upon thy companions, or seek the mirror for proof to substantiate this fact. Oh! could he control the arm of Fate, or had he his life to live again, then I could not appeal to you more sincerely. Let your mind wander back to the much cherished counsels of a loving father, and remember what you are to-day. Though you may for the present fill your station in society, the time is as inevitable as fate when your brilliancy will, like a flash, depart, leaving you a stranded wreck—desolate, forsaken and lost; so embrace the opportunity and enjoy life and happiness longer. If you claim to be a man, act your part manly. Do not console yourself with the thought that Nature will help itself, for in doing so you not only fan the flame, but wreck Nature and yourself. Remember, "Large oaks from little acorns grow;" "Little ills germinate fatal diseases."

Middle-aged Men,

married or single, who are prematurely old as a result of excesses or youthful follies, and who are troubled by too frequent evacuation of the bladder, often accompanied by a slight smarting or burning sensation, and finding a deposit of ropy sediment in the urine, and sometimes small particles of albumen will appear, or the color will first be of a thin or milkish hue, and again changing to a dark or torpid appearance, causing nervous debility and loss of Vitality. Remember, this is the second stage of Seminal Weakness. In all such cases a positive cure is guaranteed, and a radical restoration of the Genito-Urinary Organs. All interviews and letters are strictly confidential. Medicines packed so as not to excite curiosity, and sent by express, if full description of case is given, but one personal interview in all cases preferred. ... Office hours: 9 A. M. to 8 P. M.; Sundays, 10 A. M. to 1 P. M.

PUBLISHED EVERY AFTERNOON EXCEPT SUNDAY.

Victoria, Tuesday, Sept. 21, 1886.

TO CORRESPONDENTS.

While the TIMES is always prepared to give publicity to the views of correspondents on any question of interest to the public, provided facts are given, couched in unobjectionable language, we wish it to be understood that we do not hold ourselves responsible for the views expressed by the writers thereof.

Nor can we give room to duplicates of letters that have appeared in our contemporaries either in this city or elsewhere in the province. Correspondents, therefore, will save time and trouble in preparing such for THE TIMES, as they will be rejected.

Our space is valuable, and brevity, as far as possible, should be observed in writing on any topic, and on ONE SIDE of the sheet only.

CITY AND PROVINCE.

—To-day is the 21st of September, equal length of day and night.

—The new road to Alberni from Englishman's river via Cameron Lake, is making rapid progress.

—Ice cream in quantities to suit, delivered in any part of the city by Young Bros., New England Bakery.

—Concordia Hall was jammed last night to see the new troupe. Two more specialty artists appear this evening.

—Thirty-six cases eastern rubbers, all new styles, just received at the CITY BOOT AND SHOE STORE. *

—Fidelity Hams and Bacon are the best in the market, at NEUFELDER & ROSS.

—Photographic views along the line of the C. P. R. in B. C., for sale at R. MAYNARD's, Douglas St.

—Cacao Chouao, Benedictine, Chartreuse, Parfait Amour, veritable liqueurs at Neufelder & Ross'. *

—A new wagon road, 2½ miles long, connecting with the Alberni road from Hirsts is to be constructed by the government.

—DENTISTRY:—W. J. Quinlan, D. D. S., has removed to the rooms formerly occupied by Dr. West, over Denny's store, Victoria Block. *

—James A. Leech, whose mind has become deranged, was to-day committed to the asylum by the police magistrate, on the certificates of two medical gentlemen.

—A benefit for the Nanaimo general hospital is to be given on the 14th Oct. The Island Railway will then be in operation, and a number of Victorians are likely to be present.

—The Electric and Blue Mottled Soaps turned out by Pendray & Co. are absolutely pure—will wash the finest fabrics without damaging them or burning the hands. Try them.

—Mrs. E. J. Miller receives pupils in oil painting, drawing, crayon and decorative work. Room 19, Bank of British Columbia building, Government St. *

—Bomb. J. C. Newbury, B. C. G. A., made 92 points with the Snider at 200, 500 and 600 yards, at the range on Saturday. This is one point better than the winning score with the Martini rifle at the Canadian Wimbledon.

—F. C. Innes & Co., Real Estate Brokers, and Financial Agents, Vancouver, B. C., attend promptly to all enquiries about the terminal city; Free Reading Room for use of strangers arriving in Vancouver. *

—The lecture of the Rev. Dr. Shauffler, in the First Presbyterian church last evening was highly instructive and listened to with rapt attention by those who were present. The subject was Sunday school work.

—Before furnishing your house call on SHORE & ANDERSON and examine their stock of bargains in furniture. Furniture repaired, also mattresses repaired and returned on one day's notice; Douglas streets, opposite City Hall. *

—Gabriola Island has produced a beet 12 lbs. in weight without top or roots, and a turnip weighing 7 lbs. The Free Press asks "who can be(e)at this?" Now let us hear of the mammoth roots and vegetables. The fall show season is at hand, and it is their innings.

—The thing can't be done—and there is no use of looking for, or expecting to get as good a line of Laundry Soaps, TOILET SOAPS, Shaving Soap, as PENDRAY & Co. have on hand and are turning out at their factory on Humboldt street.

—There are still a number of seats in the dress circle and a few in the parquet available for Minnie Hauk's opening night. They will certainly all be taken before the end of the week. The seats for the second night are also being rapidly taken.

Hall & Quackenbush, Vancouver, B. C., have the most complete list of business and suburban properties for sale at the terminus of the Canadian Pacific Railway. Price and terms to suit all parties. Inquiries by mail promptly answered. References. *

—Mr. Wm. Carroll lost a pocket-book, containing over $40, on Monday. It was abstracted from his coat, while hanging in the rear of the store recently occupied by Mr. T. Carrington. A suspected Chinaman was searched, but without success.

—Hamilton Times: The Victoria, B. C., papers suggest that the name of Vancouver Island be changed to "Dunsmuir." Vancouver only discovered the island. Dunsmuir has improved it. Any change that would reduce the size of the title would be an improvement.

—Consignees by the North Pacific: L W Rogers, Carne & Munsie, Feil & Co, Geo Gay, G Matthews, H Saunders, Hastings S M Co, J Cunningham, J M Clute & Co, J Dwyer & Co, J Weiler, McDonald Bros, Mrs Stevens, P McQuade & Son, Royal City P Mills, T Earle, B C S & P Co, Van Volkenburgh, J W Lyle.

The Winnipeg Manitoban announces that Mr. Wagner, M. P. P., had arrived at Woodlands from the Northwest metropolis, where he has been in conference with parties from British Columbia who propose purchasing a car load of Woodlands butter. They offer at the rate of eighteen cents per pound delivered at the terminus, B. C., in car lots.

—The Free Press stoutly defends the "water way" to the Nanaimo harbor from the ocean through the straits and the Gulf of Georgia, and points to the fact that the steamers of Messrs. R. Dunsmuir & Son have been plying the waters for years without a solitary mishap. The accidents invariably occur when a "cut off" is attempted.

—Parties wishing to invest in Port Moody property will have an opportunity of so doing by calling on Captain W. R. Clarke, at his salesroom, Yates street, where prices, conditions and all other information can be obtained. The property offered is on the Clarke estate, and is considered to be the most valuable in the port.

—The school-going population of Nanaimo is increasing so rapidly that the Free Press urges the necessity of the government increasing at once the school accommodation for the girls' department. It characterizes the present building in which the future mothers in the black diamond city are educated as a relic of bye-gone ages.

FROM GRANITE CREEK.

Mr. A. H. Cameron, well-known in the city and throughout the province as an experienced miner, returned last evening from the mainland. Mr. Cameron has been located at Granite Creek since the 1st of last November. From that date till the 1st of June he devoted his entire time to prospecting the tributaries to Granite Creek as well as many other tributaries of the Tullameen river. Outside of Granite Creek, in all his travels, Mr. Cameron did not come across any gold producing territory that would warrant him in saying that the precious metal existed there in paying quantities. Mr. Cameron confirms the reports which already have appeared in these columns to the effect that the reported strikes and discoveries on several of the neighboring creeks were entirely fallacious, as far as known to him. On several creeks that had paid small wages, a few weeks ago have been abandoned. Outside of a few who are working in Granite Creek, there are not more than three claims paying wages, and small earnings at that, throughout the district. The Tullameen river reported to be very rich, so far as known is an utter failure. In a few weeks many of the claims now being operated will be worked out. The Pogue claim, or back channel—is paying from $40 to $50 to the set of timbers. This is a hill claim, and the drifting will probably last a few years. Mr. John Dean has struck paying prospects in the hill. Others are prospecting. The deep ground on the upper portion of Granite Creek has not yet revealed paying prospects. Drift work will be carried on there during the incoming winter, to thoroughly test the ground. Opposite the town in a bench the Mainland extension company, composed largely of old Cariboo miners, have struck paying prospect. The usual hangers on, and the raf rof following all mining camps vulture-like, have departed. Those on the creek are miners and likely to remain throughout the winter. For the past two months considerable gold was taken out, and the prospects are that a similar result will continue for some time.

THE ISLAND RAILWAY.

The E. & N. railway will commence running regular trains on the 1st of October. Two trains will be run each way, one starting from Victoria and one from Nanaimo and returning. One will be a mixed train, passengers and freight, the other a fast express. The convenience and cheapness of the new transportation facilities cannot yet be realized; but it will unquestionably revolutionize the carrying trade and augment very considerably the business between the two island cities. The two trains will be an experiment, and should the trade not warrant their continuance—as it can hardly be expected that it will—one of them will be withdrawn for the winter. We believe that it is Mr. Dunsmuir's intention to inaugurate, next summer, popular excursions, thus affording our citizens easy and cheap access to the many delightful resorts along the line. Now that the road is about to realize something on the large investment, all parties alike can consistently unite in wishing that it may be eminently successful in its operation.

THE SEIZED SCHOONERS.

Since the demand for the release of the sealing schooner Onward, seized in Alaskan waters, was sent on Saturday to the Colonial office for presentation at Washington, a supplementary demand has been forwarded through the same channel. This document states that in a convention that was signed at St. Petersburg between England and Russia, one article guarantees to British subjects, from whatever quarter they may arrive, the rights to forever enjoy privileges of navigation or fishing in the Pacific Ocean or any part thereof. From this it is argued that the United States could not have received from Russia the right to the exclusive navigation or fishing or sailing privileges in Alaskan waters.

BRASS BAND COMPETITION.

A pleasant feature of the Agricultural Exhibition to be held next month, will be the band competition. The prize will be worth getting, not alone for its intrinsic value but for its honor, and will undoubtedly be a splendid advertisement for the winner. Several opinions have been expressed by the members of a local band about the smallness of the prize offered—$100. They claim that the Agricultural Society kill two birds with one stone in stipulating that the bands should play for the entire three days of the show, the society virtually getting their music for the prize offered, which is small enough from either point of view. Anyhow a lively competition is expected, and may the best band win.

TEMPERANCE WORK.

The Young Women's Christian Temperance Union held a meeting at Blue Ribbon Hall last evening, which was well attended. After an opening address, Hon. John Robson spoke on the importance of the work of temperance reform, which was followed by coffee and cakes. A recitation by Mr. Hastie, reading by Miss Burgess, solo by Miss Penketh, recitation by Mr. Tucker, quartette by Mrs. Spofford, Miss McAdams, Messrs. King and Clyde, and the gospel service interspersed, completed an excellent programme. The young ladies' entertainments are always acceptable, and might be given more frequently with good effect.

THE GLEN LYON'S CONSIGNEES.

The bark Glen Lyon, which arrived today from London, brought freight for the following consignees: Order W & A Gilley, Findlay Durham & Brodie, Oppenheimer Bros, R Ward & Co, Father McGuckin, Wm Fisher, A Ofner, Col Powell, Admiralty, R N Hospital, T F Figg, S D Pemberton, order John Robertson & Son, order R D Welch & Co, C Strouss & Co, Langley & Co, T Shotbolt, order S Hanson Son & Baxter, order Collyns & Co, order Adet Seward & Co, order J H Wakesbauth, Turner Beeton & Co, order Findlay Durham & Brodie, order Lawrence Son & Co, T B Smith.

NANAIMO GAS WORKS.

Active work on the construction of the Nanaimo gas works has begun. The site for the works will be on Upper Bridge street, contiguous to the Mill stream. It is the intention of the company to patronize home, and as far as possible procure everything wanted in Nanaimo. The capacity of the works will be 20,000 cubic feet per day and so arranged that they can be enlarged when desired at a trifling cost. They will be in operation by the new year.

FIRE! FIRE!

We will open temporarily in part of Mr. Alex. Cowan's Hardware store, next door to the Colonist office, where our subscribers will be able to get their periodicals etc.

B. C. Stationery & Ptg. Co.,
J. B. FERGUSON.
General Manager.

—We learn from the Winnipeg Free Press that Messrs. Thibaudeau Bros., wholesale dry goods merchants of Montreal and Quebec, have decided to close their Winnipeg branch and hereafter do their Northwest business from their Montreal house. In Victoria none of our wholesale houses are closing up. The reverse is the case, for new ones in different lines are opening out branches.

PRESBYTERY OF COLUMBIA.

The Presbytery of Columbia met pro re nata at New Westminster last evening. Present: Messrs. Jamieson, Fraser, Thomson and Macrae, Ministers; and Messrs. Macleary and McDougall, elders.

The clerk read an intimation from the Presbytery of Regina, that Rev. S. J. Taylor, had declined the call from St. Andrew's Church, New Westminster. Leave was granted to Rev. Mr. Thomson, to moderate in a call at New Westminster, as soon as the congregation is ready.

A petition was received from the Presbyterians of Chilliwhack district asking to be organized in a congregation. Messrs. Henderson and Campbell appeared in support of the petition. They promised to contribute $600 per annum in the meantime for the support of a missionary. Rev. Mr. Thomson was instructed to organize the petitioners into a congregation at an early date, and application was made to the General Assembly's Home Mission committee for a missionary.

Petitions were received from the congregation of Langley, hitherto connected with the Church of Scotland, asking to be received into the Presbytery. Messrs Macadam, Stewart, Armstrong, Johnson, Mackee, Black and Murray, appeared as delegates and explained minutely the condition of each of the stations.

It was resolved to delay the formal reception of the congregation until intimation has been received from the Colonial Committee of the Church of Scotland of their transference to the Canadian Church, but to save time, in view of the fact that the congregation has been vacant since last March, application was made to the Home Mission committee for a missionary at the earliest possible date.

THE LATE MR. HOMER, M.P.

It appears that the death of Mr Homer, M. P., for New Westminster district, did not occur until 11:30 last evening, and not shortly after 4 p.m. as the dispatch referred to in yesterday's TIMES stated. It appears that at that hour the deceased gentleman became partly unconscious, and his friends believing that the end of a long and useful career had been reached, naturally gave way to their long pent up feelings of sorrow. Towards five o'clock he again rallied, much to the joy of those in attendance. It was however but the change that in very many cases precedes the great and last one, for shortly after 6 o'clock early dissolution became apparent and at the hour named, surrounded by his wife and all the members of his family in the province he passed peacefully, and without any apparent pain, quietly away.

The trouble with which the deceased gentleman was afflicted, was one of long standing. It was an obstruction in his bowels. Every known remedy had been tried. Physicians had rendered every possible assistance to overcome the trouble; and although during Sunday and early Monday morning relief was given by free motions, yet the effect upon his system in general produced great exhaustion, to which he latterly succumbed at the hour named.

PROMENADE CONCERT.

The promenade concert and athletic exhibition, in the Yates street rink on Monday evening, attracted a large number of spectators. His Worship Mayor Fell, the Councillors, and most of our leading citizens graced the occasion with their presence. Mr. T. Deasy, president, and Messrs. Braun and Gouge, vice-presidents, superintended the athletic performances, which were far superior to ordinary amateur efforts. The programme of games was as follows:

Exercise on spring board—F. Gouge, W. Workman, J. Weiler, W. McIntyre, H. Fiterre.

Indian club swinging—T. Fox.

Half-mile race (silver medal)—Moss 1st, Scott 2nd, G. Wilby, G. Shade. Moss was handicapped 30 feet.

Flying trapeze—M. Law, F. Gouge.

Boxing contest—J. Scott and G. Shade.

Slack wire performance—J. Weiler.

Acrobatic exercises—W. Workman, McIntyre and M. Law.

Horizontal bar—Gouge, Fiterre, Workman, McIntyre and Williams.

Single stick contest — Braund and Scott.

Double trapeze—Weiler and Law.

Half-mile walking race—G. Shade 1st, Scott 2nd. The winner received a silver medal.

The band of H. M. S. Triumph, under the leadership of Signor Antonio Agius, performed numerous selections of music during the evening. A race for blue jackets concluded the entertainment which was very successful throughout.

VICTORIA TO EASTERN POINTS.

In answer to "Traveler" the following are the rates for 1st class tickets over the Canadian Pacific to common eastern points on that line. Return 1st class, 30 days limit, $110; 60 days limit, $120; 90 days limit, $130, with stop over privileges at any point either way on life of ticket. To Winnipeg, via the Canadian Pacific the rates for first and second-class respectively, are $58 and $37. To St. Paul over the Northern Pacific from this city the rates are $59 and $39 respectively for first and second class.

"OSTLER JOE."

C. A. Lombard & Co. have laid on our table a copy of the song, "'Ostler Joe, Annie Fair." The music is simple and tuneful. The words are from the now famous poem "Ostler Joe," recited by the present reigning beauty of London, Mrs. James Potter-Brown, in Washington some time ago, which created a sensation in society circles and formed the basis for an editorial in the New York Sun.

Drink the celebrated Baja California Damiana Bitters.

CONSUL STEVENS' REPORT.

A Washington dispatch says that Consul Stevens, at Victoria, B. C., in his report to the Department of State, calls attention to the fact that merchandise in considerable quantities from San Francisco, destined for Chicago and New York, is being shipped over the Canadian Pacific railway.

FIRE! FIRE!

W. Heathorn is now prepared to execute all orders entrusted him with UTMOST DESPATCH.

VICTORIA BOOT & SHOE MANUFACTORY.

—Senator McFarlane, wife and niece, Cumberland county, U. S., are at Banff, en route to Victoria. The Senator has been in ill-health for some time and was unable to attend to his parliamentary duties last session.

—The social re-union to be held this evening, in the Baptist Church, Herald street, promises to be a very enjoyable affair. All are cordially invited.

—Never have a poor job of advertising done. Poor work don't pay. Always get the best you can, and to do so write to Geo. P. Rowell & Co., 10 Spruce street, New York, who have been in the business twenty years and represent more large advertisers, as well as more small ones, than all the other advertising houses combined.

PERSONAL MENTION.

Dr. A. M. Taylor returned from Portland and the east yesterday.

Dr. McSwain returned last evening from the mainland.

Mr. W. R. Higgins has so far recovered from the effects of the late accident as to be able to sit up and take an occasional drive. To-day his many friends were pleased to see him being driven along the street.
